

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A flexible thin layer electrochemical cell and a method of using a lamination process for manufacture thereof, the cell having a plurality of layers including a first electrode layer and a second electrode layer with a separator interspersed therebetween and wherein the separator serves as a lead element upon which the other layers are laminated using an adhesive frame mounted on the lead element.

